The Business Scene in San Clemente, Tarlac

Strategically located in the first district of Tarlac, San Clemente strengthens its position in bridging agriculture and commerce in the province.

As a growing economic hub, the fourth (4th) class municipality's fertile lands yield rich harvests of major crops such as palay, corn, root crops and other high-value crops. Livestock production also contribute significantly to the livelihood of local residents, making agriculture its economic backbone and a vital source of livelihood.

Complementing the municipality's agricultural sector is the steady growth of small and medium enterprises (SMEs), including retail establishments, service providers, and financial institutions such as Producers Bank, which help support local businesses and promote greater access to financial services within the community.

Producers Bank: Your Financial Partner in Tarlac

Producers Bank has been a partner of Tarlac for the past 18 years in terms of providing accessible banking and credit services to its farmers and SMEs. San Clemente is one of the fourteen (14) branches of Producers Bank strategically located in the province namely: Anao, Camiling, Capas, Concepcion, Gerona, La Paz, Moncada, Paniqui, Ramos, San Manuel, Sta. Ignacia, Tarlac City, and Victoria.

With a nationwide network of 319 branches, Producers Bank offers a wide range of deposit products, loan facilities, and financial solutions designed to meet the needs of farmers, entrepreneurs, employees, and businesses of all sizes. The Bank also provides convenient banking services, including 24/7 ATM access, fund transfers through InstaPay and PESONet, and international remittance services through Western Union.

Through its newest branch in San Clemente, Producers Bank affirms its commitment supporting local communities by empowering farmers and entrepreneurs in producing more wealth for the country, promoting financial inclusion in line with the vision of the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP).
